Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Clearpoint Global Dividend Fund seeks to achieve long-term capital growth through its investments in equity securities of companies around the world.

The Fund's investment philosophy focuses on purchasing companies with a demonstrable and consistent ability to generate cash flows and distribute those cash flows in the form of dividends.

The Fund will seek to be diversified by company, market capitalization, sector, industry and where appropriate, by region. Canadian or U.S. government debt and / or cash equivalents may be held from time to time as market conditions dictate. The Fund will also maintain the ability to invest in any other yield-based security or asset class that develops over time. The Fund may invest in issuers that do not currently generate yield but have a strong likelihood of doing so in the foreseeable future.

The investment objective of the Fund may only be changed with the approval of unitholders at a meeting called for that purpose.

Risk

The risks of investing in the Fund remain as described in the prospectus. There were no material changes to the Fund over the financial year that affected the overall level of risk. The Fund is suitable for growth-oriented investors with longer investment time horizons who are seeking equity exposure to companies throughout the world and are willing to accept moderate investment risk.

Results of Operations

Performance Highlights:

The Series A units of the Fund were up 1.22% from December 31, 2015 to June 30, 2016 and as at December 31, 2015 the Fund has a unit value of $6.94. The Series F units of the Fund were up 1.82% from December 31, 2015 to June 30, 2016 and as at June 30, 2016 has a unit value of $8.00. Assets under management decreased 10% to $15.2 million. The S&P 500 returned -2.92% in 2016. The Fund had returns much better than to the broader index. The better performance was mostly due to the defensive nature of the funds holdings specifically in Consumer Products and Utilities.

The dividend streams continued to grow and our tax efficiency remains in place. We continue to like our stock selection and sector holdings but we have repositioned the portfolio taking some profits in our Utility positions and reallocating too Industrial and Information Technology sectors due to attractive valuations there. For the sake of clarity we still have more exposure to Utilities than most of our competitors.

Recent Developments – Sub Advisory Comments

Notably, as Q2 2016 ended, the broad market rallied. In our view, regrettably it is hard to find justification for top-line (sales) acceleration. In our opinion, earnings reports over the next 4-6 weeks are not likely to exceed expectations unless expectations have been reduced in advance of the reports. It is important at times like this to have an analytical framework that guides us in assessing what the "fair value" of the broad markets is.

We do this with focus on likely future earnings and a "normal" level of interest rates (price earnings ratios). So what is Fair Value for the Broad Market? Our work indicates the S&P 500 Index today is fairly valued at 2,092 or 3-4% BELOW the Index's current level. The market rally back again into OVERVALUED territory does not mean the markets will fall tomorrow or even collapse. It does suggest the market has gotten ahead of itself, that caution is advised, and that we should maintain a decent cash reserve.

Can the market go higher? Of course. In fact, we assume the accuracy of our valuation model produces fair value estimates that are accurate within +/- 6% and in this analysis that would produce a possible upside boundary of 2,217 with proportionately more downside risk.

In the meantime, remember that the key assumptions underlying our Fair Value estimate are; the S&P earnings per share will grow about 40% slower than analysts expectation this year and next, and that a fair P-E multiple today is 16.7. What is the most important factor to watch in during Q3 2016? With economic activity tepid, and the valuation of stocks generally unappealing, the key will be Q2 earning reports and the accompanying comments by Management(s) about the economy and future sales and earnings. On the one hand the market needs a positive surprise to feel comfortable about the earnings forecasts for 2017 to sustain the summer. On the other hand, if the reports fall short, expect the road to remain bumpy as it has over the past year. Importantly, unless a data shortfall is sufficient to suggest an economic contraction is imminent, it is our opinion that any ensuing sell-off will be contained as a minor correction in the range of 4-6%.

In Closing:

We work with Financial Advisors so that they are able to make informed decisions on participation in and placement of the Fund. The growth of the Fund and its success would not be possible without the trust and support of all involved. Thank you for your confidence and we look forward to serving your investment needs and assisting you to your investment goals now and in the future.

⁽²⁾ Management expense ratio is based on total expenses for the stated period and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net assets during the period.

⁽⁴⁾ The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net assets during the period.

Management Fees

As compensation for managing the Fund, the Manager can receive an annual fee of up to 2% of the average net asset value of Series A units of the Fund and an annual fee of up to 1% of the average net asset value of Series F units of the Fund.
